CARLISLE

News Culled From Nicholas County Precincts.

From the Mercury.

DIED.—At her home at Miranda, this county, on Tuesday, the 24th, inst., Mrs. Herndon, widow of the late Dr. T. C. Herndon, aged about 70 years. Burial at Carlisle cemetery.

George Secrest traded his house and land in this city—(known as the Thos. Kennedy home) to Jas. Dooley, for his farm) to Jas. Dooley, for his farm of 112 acres, about one mile west of Carlisle. Mr. Secrest gives one thousand dollars in cash in addition.

The County Board of Equalization closed its labors Saturday by adding $15,885 to the Assessor's list, making the total valuation of County property $3,439,725. This is exclusive of the Bank, Railroad and franchise assessment which will make a grand total of over four millions.

Mrs. Basil W. Duke, of Louisville, President of the "United Daughters of the Confederacy," writes that she would be delighted to establish a chapter in Carlisle. The "Daughters" are made up of "widows, wives, mothers, sisters, nieces or lineal descendants of such men as served honorably in the Confederate army, navy, or civil service, or of those persons who loyally gave material aid to the cause, etc."

Constable Morris Evans, of Bethel, brought here Monday, a negro boy named Wm. Fox, who is charged with murdering his mistress, Ida Marshall, in Covington, a few months ago. On Tuesday, Detective James Gaffney, of Covington, and H. C. Norris, of Cynthiana, came here and recognized him, and took him to Covington on Tuesday afternoon train. Fox confessed that he was the man wanted. His captors will receive a reward of $250 offered by the Governor.

Every Month

there are thousands of women who nearly suffer death from irregular menses. Sometimes the "period" comes too often—sometimes not often enough—sometimes the flow is too scant, and again it is too profuse. Each symptom shows that Nature needs help, and that there is trouble in the organs concerned. Be careful when in any of the above conditions. Don't take any and every nostrum advertised to cure female troubles.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

is the one safe and sure medicine for irregular or painful menstruation. It cures all the ailments that are caused by irregularity, such as leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, nervousness, pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides, hips and limbs. By regulating the menses so that they occur every twenty-eighth day, all those aches disappear together. Just before your time comes, get a bottle and see how much good it will do you. Druggists sell it at $1.

Letter From Lieut. Ben Frank.

FAJARDO, PORTO RICO,
January 16th, 1899.

Dear Walter:—Last night I received official notice that I would be relieved from duty and returned to the United States. I resigned about a month ago in order to accept a position in one of the medical colleges of Louisville, and my resignation has been accepted. I feel that I have done my duty by the government. I have now been in the service eight months and have spent five of them in Porto Rico. My regiment has returned to the United States and I feel justified in resigning my position of Port Surgeon of Fajardo, Porto Rico. I have tried hard to do my duty as a soldier, although I have had many hardships, but I expected nothing else.

The First Kentucky regiment gained a great name while in Porto Rico. Praise is given here from all sides, and well it is deserved, for the regiment did its duty well. Gens. Brooks, Henry and Grant, as well as many others, have complimented the First Kentucky very highly. The good work of the regiment is due alone to Col. John B. Castleman, the commanding officer. Too much can not be said in praise of him, for he was an officer that few others can compare with. He loved his men and was ever looking after their wants. He was kind and true, but when he said a thing he meant it, and every man in his command loved, honored and respected him. Lieutenant Col. Belknap and all the other officers were way above the standard, and I can safely say that the First Kentucky was the best regiment that ever set foot on Porto Rican soil. The people of the grand old state of Kentucky, and of the United States, should be proud of Col. Castleman and his excellent regiment. I feel proud that I was a member of that regiment, and when I return I shall feel honored to shake the hands of my dear comrades.

Hope to sail for the states within ten days, and shall be happy to once more set foot on dear old Kentucky soil.

Very Truly,

BEN FRANK,
Port Surgeon, Fajardo, P. R.

The monument to Kentucky soldiers in Chickamauga National Park will be unveiled during the first week in May.

At Carlisle Tuesday Constable Evans arrested Wm. Fox, a negro who is wanted at Covington for the murder of a woman.

Mack H. Perry, a 14-year-old boy, was sentenced at Campton, Wolf county, to two years' imprisonment for killing another boy.

The Georgetown Ministers' Association adopted resolutions calling on Congressmen to settle to vote against seating Congressman Roberts, the polygamist of Utah.

William I. Moore, one of Danville's oldest citizens, was killed by a Louisville & Nashville passenger train, at Alum Springs, Wednesday afternoon, while crossing the track in a phaeton.

Stanford, which gets lots of good things in the way of lectures, is going to hear Gov. Bob Taylor's "Fiddle and the Bow," Tuesday night, and that excellent one-man show, Polk Miller, on next Thursday night.

Clay Dredgen, of Scott county, shot himself because Miss Mary Briten refused to marry him. The deed was committed in the presence of the young lady in her parlor. She is nursing him back to recovery and will marry him.

W. B. Holmes, a Danville grocer, burned his entire stock of tobacco and cigars on the public streets, and will quit handling such goods. He recently bought out two partners because they would not agree to quit handling tobacco.

President Boyd of the Kentucky Confederate Veterans' Association denies that Mrs. Quattrill, the mother of the famous guerilla, is in charge of his association. She came to Lexington on money furnished by the association, but it was understood that the hospital would keep her free.

A Popular Hotel.

ALWAYS popular, the Palace Hotel, Sixth and Vine street, was easily the most popular hotel in Cincinnati during the G. A. R. encampment. Excellent cuisine, prompt service, and polite employees, and splendid management has made it the best $2 and $3.50 per day hotel in America. Kentuckians always find friends stopping at this hostelry. (77sep48)

A goodly portion of Toledo was "Cyrano" mad this week. Monday morning the advance sale of seats opened and 800 people were in line, some men hired by speculators holding positions for forty-eight hours. In two hours the entire house was sold, speculators getting nearly everything, and selling $2 seats for $10, $15 and $20. A crowd of ladies who tried to break through the line had to retreat, many having their dresses torn.

In "Cyrano de Bergerac" Richard Mansfield has the greatest money-maker on the road. He played to $95,000 in nine weeks, in New York, to $75,000 in five weeks in Chicago, to $18,000 in one week in St. Louis, and over $17,000 last week in Cincinnati. Though the play is making money it is safe to predict that Mr. Mansfield will not continue it longer than another season, if that long. Besides the expense of the production, requiring 150 persons, a special train, tons of scenery and properties, it is a terrible strain on Mr. Mansfield as he is on the stage for three and one-half hours. On matinee days he spends twelve hours in the theater.

Foul-Smelling Catarrh.

Catarrh is one of the most obstinate diseases, and hence the most difficult to get rid of.

There is but one way to cure it. The disease is in the blood, and all the sprays, washes and inhalant mixtures in the world can have no permanent effect whatever upon it. Swift's Specific cures Catarrh permanently, for it is the only remedy which can reach the disease and force it from the blood.

Mr. B. P. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., had Catarrh for years. He writes: "I could see no improvement whatever, though I was constantly treated with sprays and washes, and different inhalant remedies. In fact, I could feel that each winter I was worse than the year previous."

"Finally it was brought to my notice that Catarrh was a blood disease, and after thinking over the matter, I saw it was unreasonable to expect to be cured by remedies which only reached the surface. I then decided to try S. S. S., and after a few bottles were used, I noticed a perceptible improvement. Continuing the remedy, the disease was forced out of my system, and a complete cure was the result. I advise all who have this dreadful disease to abandon their local treatment, which has never done them any good, and take S. S. S., a remedy that can reach the disease and cure it."

To continue the wrong treatment for Catarrh is to continue to suffer. Swift's Specific is a real blood remedy, and cures obstinate, deep-seated diseases, which other remedies have no effect whatever upon. It promptly reaches Catarrh, and never fails to cure even the most aggravated cases.

S. S. S. For the Blood is Purely Vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no dangerous minerals. Books mailed free by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

THE SERFS OF RUSSIA.

Flogging Them Was One of the Duties of the Police.

Father will not be appeased, says Prince Kropotkin in The Atlantic. He calls in Makar, the piano tuner and subbutler, and reminds him of all his recent sins. He was drunk last week and must have been drunk yesterday, for he broke half a dozen plates. In fact, the breaking of these plates was the real cause of all the disturbance. Stepmother had reported the fact to father in the morning, and that was why Uliana was received with more scolding than was usually the case, why the verification of the hay was undertaken and why father continued to shout that "this progeny of Ham" deserved all the punishments on earth.

All of a sudden there is a lull in the storm. My father has taken his seat at the table and writes a note to the police station. "Take Makar with this note to the police station, and let 100 lashes with the birch rod be given to him."

Terror and absolute muteness reign in the house.

The clock strikes 4, and we all go down to dinner, but no one has any appetite, and the soup remains in the plates untouched. We are ten at table, and behind each one of us a violinist or a trombone player stands, with a clean plate in his left hand, but Makar is not among them.

"Where is Makar?" stepmother asks. "Call him in."

Makar does not appear, and the order is repeated. He enters at last, pale, with a distorted face, ashamed, his eyes cast down. Father looks into his plate, while stepmother, seeing that no one has touched the soup, tries to encourage us.

"Don't you find, children," she says, "that the soup is delicious?"

Tears suffocate me, and immediately after dinner is over I run out, catch Makar in a dark passage and try to kiss his hand, but he tears it away and says, either as a reproach or as a question, "Let me alone. And you, too, when you are grown up, will be just the same?"

"No, no; never!"

Yet father was not of the worst of landowners. On the contrary, the servants and the peasants considered him to be one of the best. What we saw in our house was going on everywhere, often in much more cruel forms. The flogging of the serfs was a regular part of the duties of the police.

LONG DISTANCE FIGHTING.

Impossible to Tell Infantry From Cavalry at Two Thousand Yards.

"Unless they have had experience," remarked an army officer, "people are very likely to have a very imperfect idea as to distances in army and field operations and as a result get things considerably mixed. When they read that armies are engaging with each other at 2,000 yards between them, they may think that they can see each other, but the reality is far different."

"At that distance, to the naked eye, a man or a horse does not look any larger than a speck. It is impossible to distinguish at that distance between a man and a horse, and at 800 yards less, 1,200 yards, especially where there is any dust, it requires the best kind of eyes to tell infantry from cavalry. At 900 yards the movements become clearer, though it is not until they get within 750 yards of each other that the heads of the columns can be made out with anything like certainty."

"Infantry can be seen in the sunlight much easier than the cavalry or artillery, for the reason that less dust is raised. Besides that, infantry can be distinguished by the glitter of their muskets. At 2,000 yards, however, everything is unsatisfactory, even with the aid of field glasses, for a marching column in dry weather raises a great deal of dust."—Washington Star.

A True Caballero.

Well in the middle of the grounds stands General Anderson's headquarters. As we went up the steps a tall man, rather shabbily dressed, preceded us. We noticed his military bearing and were told that he was the captain of one of the Spanish men-of-war which lies with projecting spars at the bottom of Cavite harbor. Following his footsteps, we of necessity overheard what he said to the general's aid:

"Senor, I borrowed, some time ago, $200 from Admiral Dewey to pay off my men. I have come to repay the debt."

He turned his profile toward us, and we noticed how thin he looked. He must have starved himself to collect the money. With a very straight back, he counted out the Spanish bills and turned to go.

"Will you not take a receipt?" asked the aid of General Anderson.

"Never from an officer," answered the gray haired old gentleman, with a courtly old fashioned bow.

Here at least is a true Spanish caballero.—Harper's Weekly.

A Gorgeous King.

Luinaka, the king of Barotse Land, says a traveler, is held in great fear and respect by his people. His court has as much etiquette and ceremonial as that of Louis XIV. His band of musicians make both day and night hideous with their performances. The music is done to drive away evil spirits. Luinaka himself is an imposing spectacle.

The king wears a long blue dressing gown trimmed with red braid, trousers and shirt, and on his head a scarlet nightcap, and above it a black tair hat.

His Idea of Luck.

"We don't have no luck at our house like they have over to Jimmy Smithers'."

"Why, what kind of luck do the Smithers have?"

"Jimmy Smithers' father has dyspepsia, an there's always a piece of pie left over an Jimmy gits it!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
